Home to one of the best airlines and airports in the world, Singapore is a global air hub with a leading aviation and aerospace industry. In partnership with IATA and the University of West London, SISH's aviation programmes prepare students to set foot confidently into the booming global travel and aviation sector.

Aviation: The Pathway

Why study Aviation in Singapore?

One of the Best Airports in the World ¹

Singapore Changi Airport bagged the best airport title for the 12th year running in Skytrax survey.

One of the Best Airlines in the World ²

Singapore Airlines named world's best airline in Skytrax Awards 2023.

Central Point of Contact for Airlines in the Region

Singapore remains as the main IATA headquarters for the Asia-Pacific region and is growing its presence here.

One of the Busiest Airports in the World ³

Changi Airport serves more than 100 airlines with over 68.3 million passengers passing in 2019.

A Global Hub in Asia

Singapore remains as the top tourist destination since coverage from the Trump-Kim summit, Crazy Rich Asians, F1 and other global events.
